

'Seussical' Full of Musical Fun

by Reporter Sophia Bradley, Leman Academy of Excellence

A treat for the young and the young at heart! On June 23–25, the Berger Performing Arts Center hosted the Saguaro City Music Theatre for performances of "Seussical The Musical." This presentation brought many of Dr. Seuss's most famous characters to life, such as The Grinch, Horton the Elephant, Gertrude McFuzz and the Sour Kangaroo.

"Seussical The Musical" cleverly mixes several Dr. Seuss books, coming together to make one story, all combined to make one spectacular play. In one part of the play, Gertrude McFuzz, who had only a one-feathered tail, came across Horton the Elephant after he was sold to the circus.

At times, there are dozens of characters on stage, perfectly arranged, dancing and singing in perfect unison! They even made it so that the moving around of some of the props on stage was done by performers to make the story flow. But what made the play very special to me was that there were young kids in the play, which I found to be a very smart and creative idea.

Saguaro City Music Theatre helps kids and adults of any age to focus on learning, rehearsing, and performing on a stage. Better yet, their tuition is free, so that anybody can join and be part of a professional theater production.

"Seussical The Musical" came about because of this program. The performers and producers practiced for three weeks to perfect the musical. I would recommend "Seussical The Musical" to any family looking to have a good time.
